WORK ON PUBLIC SQUARE.

County Highway Engineer Holman last Monday began the work of grading and improving that portion of half of the streets around the Court House square next to the Court House, in accordance with a recent order of the County Court. The City Council has taken steps, as may be seen by the street improvement resolution published in The Times, to have the other half of the streets on the square graded and improved in conformity with the half next to the Court House. The plan adopted and material to be used in this work insures a good, substantial street bed that will be creditable to the town and greatly add to the appearance of the square. It will also have the effect of arousing a spirit of civic pride and result in similar improvements on other streets. The cost for such improvement is not as great as many imagine it is, it being estimated that the work on the square will cost each property owner about one dollar a running foot in front of his property. If this is correct and the other streets can be put in the same condition as cheaply, there is no reason why a general street improvement boom should not set in. The town has a good system of grand sidewalks that cost the property owners as much as this street improvement would cost them.

PRESIDENT THOMAS GIVEN LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

President and Mrs. George B. Thomas left on Wednesday for Boston, Mass., where he will take post-graduate work in Boston University, of which opportunity he has been very desirous, but the conditions in Carleton prevented his going until now. The outlook for Carleton was never as good as at present. His absence will not interfere with the pushing to completion of the new building, the endowment, or any of the activities of the school. President Thomas was given a leave of absence by the Executive Committee, who have the present work and plans for the future well in hand.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

This is the centennial year of the "Declaration and Address" of Thomas Campbell, in 1809, known as the "Restoration Movement" and beginning of the religious organization now known as the Christian Church of the Disciples of Christ. The occasion will be celebrated by the churches of this organization from all parts of the country at Pittsburg, Pa., on October 11 to 19. The Christian Church of Farmington observed this centennial last Sunday in a befitting manner, with Sunday School, morning and afternoon services, each representing features associated with the movement. The church at this time has no pastor, and the papers and addresses were by members selected by a committee appointed to arrange for the rally.

After the morning lesson of the Sunday School, at which the attendance was about 170, the largest in its history, the Superintendent, Judge J. S. Clay, delivered a short but interesting and eloquent address on Sunday School progress and its relations to the Christian Church. His remarks struck a responsive chord in all hearts.

At the eleven o'clock services Judge G. O. Nations delivered a splendid address on "The Beginning of the Movement." No better selection for this address could have been made, for few if any men are more conversant with religious history or better equipped than Judge Nations to speak intelligently and interestingly on the great theme of christian growth and development. He went back to the 14th century, reciting some of the events that led up to and precipitated the Reformation of which Martin Luther was the inspiring spirit, and on through the inception and progress of other protestant organizations and their contribution to the movement of 1809, when Thomas Campbell published his "Declaration and Address," eschewing all written creeds and taking the Bible alone as the only safe guide, with the motto, "Where the Bible speaks we speak, and where the Bible is silent we are silent." Judge Nations spoke for about an hour and a half, and while his address was comprehensive and searching there was much connected with the subject that he could not take up and elaborate in so short a space of time. It was a long discourse, as sermons go to day, but there was not a dull sentence in his whole talk and the attention of his audience was as close at the end as at the beginning. They seemed to forget all about the dinner hour, which may be construed as a sincere compliment to the Judge's accomplishment as an entertaining speaker.

At three o'clock in the afternoon the C. W. B. M. had charge of the exercises, one of the principal features of which was a paper by Mrs. J. B. Burks on the "Work of Woman." It was an admirably written and comprehensive paper along the line of woman's work in the church and the accomplishment of this organization of the Christian Church since its inception in 1874. Mrs. Burks was showered with compliments and congratulations on her splendid effort.

Elder Dorset, pastor of the Christian Church at Flat River, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tetley and several others from Flat River came over to this afternoon service, and Elder Dorset was pressed into service. He gave a very inspiring and impressive talk of ten or fifteen minutes and captured the good will of the brethren here, who saw and heard him for the first time on this occasion. At the close of Elder Dorset's remarks, Mr. Fisher gave a short talk on "The Place of the Lord's Supper in the Movement," after which this simple and beautiful memorial as administered by the Christian Church was observed. A collection was taken up by the C. W. B. M. for the Centennial fund, which amounted to $3.50.

In the evening Mr. Robert M. Talbert conducted the closing centennial services of the day and delivered an address on the "Progress and Achievements of a Hundred Years." The interest in the practically all day services was still in evidence and a good audience was in attendance. Mr. Talbert took up the subject where Judge Nations left it in the morning, the beginning of the "Restoration Movement" in 1809, and in a delightfully interesting way followed up the growth of the movement, which starting with but a handful of adherents has a membership of a million and a half at this time. Mr. Talbert was at his best, and for about an hour held the closest attention of his audience and acquitted himself in a manner that elicited many and warm congratulations.

The songs used in the several services were mostly old well known hymns, some of them more familiar years ago than to-day, with organ and violin accompaniment at the morning and evening services, and sung without instrumental accompaniment at the afternoon services, as in the good old days of congregational singing, when the pastor after reading out the hymn would follow with "Let all the congregation sing."

This centennial rally of the local Christian Church was highly enjoyed by all who attended.

Burgess of Chestnut Ridge are sadly afflicted in the loss of their little daughter, Amanda Elizabeth, who passed away on Sept. 7th with typhoid fever, after a severe illness of ten days.
